Strict state laws regarding hiring and buying are coming into play now that the Hancock County Board of Supervisors is reaching the end of its first term in office.

The laws came to light of the Board of Supervisors and had to be explained to supervisors by county attorney Gerald Gex, since four of the present supervisors are serving their first term in public office.

The spending and hiring restrictions apply mainly to the Roads Department, but can also affect road and bridge projects, and highway repairs made with state-aid funds. Road Supt. Roger Ladner got Monday at the recess meeting a quick lesson from Gex when he asked permission to hire another full-time employee.

Gex said he could not make a LAWS-PAGE 10A

Kintz came up with a plan to place eight drains in the street which empty into a 28-inch pipe, which runs along the side of the street and, in turn, carries the runoff to the next catch basin, then out to the Bay of St. Louis.

Longo says the whole job came in at a modest cost of between $2,000 and $3,000, but the ultimate savings to the city is estimated between $17,000 and $18,000 if an outside contractor had been awarded the project.

"This way of operating encourages people and employees to be part of a community," said Longo. "We use the resources we have, our citizens, and at the same time, save money and come up with unique solutions to problems that an expert may not consider possible. Longo says, "A small city like ours has to do things this way to make the most of its resources.

Hancock County supervisors will readvertise for prices to build a concession stand and light ballfields next to Gulfview Elementary School on Lakeshore Road.

On Monday, supervisors opened two bids that were way over money that has been set aside for the project.

K&L Construction of Saucier Aug. 2. submitted a bid of $341,869, and Kanduit Construction of day's recess meeting, supervi-Picayune was the low bidder at sors: $137,600.

At the suggestion of District 1 Supervisor Jeep Ladner, supervisors rejected both bids, and passed another motion to bid out the project separately.

Bidders will now be asked to give a cost for lighting the ballfields, and give another estimate for building the concession stand.

Ladner said the lighting was most important, and the concession stand could wait. He said folks attending ball games could use restrooms that are available at Gulfview Elemen-

The state Department of Environmental Quality has awarded Hancock County a $17,496 Solid Waste Assistance grant.

Jeff Loftus, the county's consultant to the Gulf Regional Planning Commission, said some of the funds will be used to provide a full-time enforcement officer to begin checking on illegal dumping.

Most of the dumping of old appliances, mattresses and other large items is occurring in

Loftus said plans still need to be finalized with Sheriff Ronnie Peterson, but the grant would be used as a match to pay the salary of a full-time deputy who

Harrison rejects landfill expansion

BY ED LEPOMA

Harrison County's Solid Waste Authority, by a 4-2 vote Thursday, denied a request by Waste Management, Inc. to expand its landfill at Pecan Grove.

The Authority needed the approval in order to go forward and request permits from the state Department of Environmental Quality.

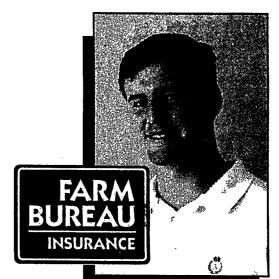

Waste Management Manager Larry Hubbard said, "We are disappointed," but declined to say whether his firm would take the matter to court or propose a smaller expansion of the landfill off Menge Avenue in northern Harrison County. The company has warned that the Pecan Grove site will be filled by year's end and wanted to expand from the present 76 acres to 215 acres.

Meanwhile, the District is continuing negotiations with Waste Management, Mississippi Waste of Hancock County and Southern Pines, Inc., which are interested in opening up a new landfill in a stillundisclosed location near the

Waterspout

This menacing-looking waterspout formed about 10 a.m. Thursday offshore from Beach Boulevard at Lakeshore Road in Hancock County. The system, which actually formed twin waterspouts, was moving west to east and did not reach land. Margaret Dupont of Dallas, Texas took the photo while visiting area relatives. They first spotted the waterspout from Bordages Fishing Camp and then drove to the seawall to take the photo and watched the waterspouts for about ten minutes before they broke up.

Will AG enter landfill feud?

BY ED LEPOMA

Will State Attorney General Michael Moore intervene in the ongoing feud over locating a landfill in Hancock County? That's what one of the leading opponents is hoping will happen. At Monday's meeting, the Board of Supervisors read into the record a letter written to the attorney general by Mary Sin-

ders of Waveland, who leads up Citizens for Responsible

On June 26, Sinders wrote to in a "Bill of Exception" filed June 17 by Mississippi Waste of Hancock County which challenges the Board of Supervisors right to call a referendum in November. Voters will be asked if they are in favor or opposed to locating a privately-owned landfill in the buffer zone surrounding the Stennis Space Center or anywhere in Hancock County. In her letter, Sinders told Moore, "The Bill of Exception seems to subvert the will of the Hancock County electorate who signed the petition which called for a referendum on the right to construct a privately owned landfill in Hancock County." Sinders added, "It also challenges the May 27 opinion of your office."

The dilemma over whether or not supervisors can schedule a vote on the issue arose due to two opposing opinions issued by the attorney general's office.

In April, an assistant attorney general ruled supervisors could not call a referendum even though two opposing groups had obtained the required signatures of 25 percent of qualified voters in Hancock County. The opinion said super-

It is good to know that several members of the inactive Diamondhead Rotary Club are in the process of trying to reorganize the club.

On Thursday, David Treutel Jr. and I attended a meeting of the group led by Dr. Jim Bills at the new Diamondhead Country Club.

Dave and I were the District Governor's representatives who helped in the early 90's in the formation of the Diamondhead Rotary Club.

Several things happened that caused the club to be suspended for awhile, and now the time is ripe. The group, along with Dr. Bills, feel the club can be reorganized.

If you are interested in the Diamondhead Rotary Club, why not contact Dr. Bills at 255-4099, or Gary Wiley at 255-1729.

By the way, the Diamondhead Country Club is very beautiful and a great place to meet.

I am sure that visitors driving to and through our area are impressed with the median of Highway 90 through Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

The grounds maintenance crews of Bay St. Louis and Waveland have been very busy in preparation for the long July 4th weekend.

The mowing and trimming of the highway just makes such a big difference.

One of the big problems still faced by the grass cutting crews is that they have to remove litter before they are able to cut the grass.

We need more people to become involved in trying to make others realize the importance of not tossing litter along our highways and roadways.

Anyway, we need to appreciate the job our cities are doing in helping make our highway more presentable.

Construction began this week on the base for the bronze statue of Bienville at the Tercentenary Park next to Hancock Bank on Beach Boulevard.

Charles Gray, president of the Hancock County Historical Society has been very busy coordinating the project. Contributors are Hancock Bank, the City of Bay St. Louis and the Histrical Society for the project.

The big 300 anniversary celebration is set for August 25, the Feast Day of Saint Louis, whom the Bay of St. Louis was named after in 1699.

The walk in the park will be lined with bricks surrounding the life-size bronze statue of Jean Pierre Le-Moyne, Sieur de Bienville.

Anyway, the Historical Society is selling bricks at $50 each for the walk and each brick will have three lines of space which may contain up to 14 characters in-

Many bricks have been sold, yet there is still room for more, according to Gray. For further information, contact the Historical Society at 467-4090.

The park will sit behind an entrance way that features a circular bronze city crest and two bronze ship replicas.

This will really be an elaborate park and one all residents of the area can be very proud to have in their city.

There are still a lot of activities underway in the area related to the July Fourth weekend. The Our Lady of the Gulf Crab Fest and St. Rose de Lima Church Fair continue through today at the respective church grounds.

The Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo in Gulfport continues through tomorrow.

And tonight the big Casino Magic Bay St. Louis fireworks display is scheduled for 9 p.m.

I hope you all have a safe and happy Fourth.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dan B's. Not guilty!

Dear Editor: The human psyche is an amazing thing. Particularly interesting is the emotional response to change.

For instance, some people find change exciting, fun, challenging and a time of growth. Other people, however, find change to be frightening, uncertain and unbearable.

That fact is a sad one for some people, because they have automatically limited their growth potential. That is sad, because one cannot become a better person without change.

Change is the only real constant, everywhere! Like it or not. Change will happen!

It is the knowledge of this human characteristic which allows us the ability to forgive those who would attack the innocent (Dan B's) for things they do not understand. We can only hope that they will conquer their fear.

Everyone, please listen carefully! Dan B's had nothing to do with the purchase of the parking lot. That responsibility falls on those family members who own the vacant land next to Dan B's. Louis Decell and Helen Murphy Decell own Dan B's and are in no way responsible for any of our dealings. They were as shocked and surprised as everyone else.

I was very saddened today when I read in the Sun-Herald that some merchants were going to boycott Dan B's because of the parking issue. Then I thought, "I couldn't cut myself off from one of Dan B's roast beefs for anything. Especially something they are not responsible for. Nothing like cutting off your nose to spite your face!"

Please! Don't blame Dan B's for being the ones trying to bring change, growth, excitement, more parking and tourists to downtown Bay St. Louis. You know. All those bad things. Blame me, Ray, Rock, Tim Bev or Norman, but please don't blame Dan B's. And for God's sake, please don't deny yourself the pleasures of Dan B's food because of us. We can't bear that responsibility!

To those who still don't understand what we are trying to do, I will say this one more time. We want to improve Bay St. Louis not destroy it.

However, change wi necessary, as scary as that is to some people. We do apologize to ithose who have a weak stomach for change. We really don't mean to cause you any discomfort.

We are only trying to provide for our families. You should be glad though that it is us and not someone from somewhere else who may not have lived here their whole lives and who would not be planning to stay here, like we are.

To those who do understand our position and support us, we appreciate your support.
One last thing. We are very easy to talk to. If you have something to say, please tell us. We are open to suggestions! Ken Murphy

Citizens for Responsible Dumping do not want a county dump

Dear Editor:

A story is being circulated that Citizens for Responsible Dumping want Hancock County to own and maintain a landfill in the county. This grossly exaggerated version of the citizens' position is probably fostered by proponents of the proposed privately owned landfill as evidenced by statements printed by the news media.

The truth is that Citizens for Responsible Dumping oppose any landfill in Hancock County unless it is determined that such a landfill is the only means available for county trash disposal. In that event, we believe a county owned landfill which can control areas from which trash will be received is preferable to a privately owned landfill which would take out of state garbage.

There is NO NEED for any landfill in the county. The Hancock County Solid Waste Authority was remiss in their deliberations in not thoroughly. exploring the issue of need. In: fact, that august body clearly knew that there was no need when they accepted the Yorke, proposal. This was clearly? demonstrated at the Authority meeting at which York's proposal was accepted.

A representative of Waste Management stated in the opening meeting that Waste Management would accept Hancock County waste for 20 years at the Millard site in Pearl River County.

That offer had already been made to the Authority at a price equivalent to the current rate. Moreover, proponents of the York plan are grossly exaggerating costs to the county should it ever become necessary for a county owned land-

Even if superior technology has not been developed by the time the county needs a new waste disposal facility, the cost of a small, county-owned landfill is much lower than the amounts suggested by the consultants paid by the Yorks.

The news that is being printed by the media and stories circulated by York's allies should state the facts correctly and honestly. The news media has the obligation to make sure this is done.

Citizens for Responsible Dumping want NO landfill in the county, There is absolutely No NEED for one. Until that need is demonstrated, the Authority and county officials are remiss in their responsibility to the people they represent if they permit any landfill to be constructed in the county.

The citizens have spoken by signing a petition opposing a landfill. The elected officials should listen to the voice of the electorate.

On China

During the next century one of America's most important foreign relationships will concern China. China is the world's most populated country in the middle of the world's most rapidly growing economic region,

The United States is the world's only military super-power and the world's leading economy. Our paths will inevitably cross. Whether that is a good or bad fact will depend largely on the decisions Washington and Beijing make about this looming question in the coming months.

The security of our children. grandchildren and even beyond will depend on a long-term strategy for relating to China. I believe we must contruct a firm policy of encouraging democracy, freedom and economic opportunity in China, which also makes clear that America's military secrets and national security are not to be threatened without consequences.

We hear much about "engagement" of China, but engagement cannot be synonymous with appeasement. We have evidences that the Chinese sponsored an espionage effort to steal U.S. nuclear secrets. If this is true, the spy or spies should be firmly punished. If our current administration aided in this effort, whether deliberately or through negligence, it should immediately and truthfully answer to the American people whose security has been diminished by any new and improved Chinese weapons pointed at America or our allies. Continuing reports suggest a protracted espionage effort in U.S. nuclear labs. The latest controversy centers on an employee at the Los Alamos weapons laboratory suspected of passing secrets about the W-88. America's most advanced nuclear warhead, to the Chinese. The suspicion apparently began in 1995, when American experts analyzing Chinese nuclear test results found striking similarities to the W-88.

Two months later, the CIA acquired a Chinese government document from 1988. According to a report in the New York Times the document "specifically mentioned the W-88 and described some of the warhead's key design features.

Unfortunately this latest development only join a series of additional scenarios suggesting a growing Chinese interest in American military technology. This includes charges that sensitive satellite secrets were transferred to China, and that the Chinese may have illegally donated to President Clinton's 1996 Presidential campaign.

In January the Wall Street Journal reported that this curiosity may have begun as early as the 1970s and continued through the 1980s, when Taiwan-born American scientists began working at American labs passed classified information to China concerning America's neutron-bomb and laser technology.

Meanwhile, the Chinese continued to aid terrorist like Iran. They supported a nuclear arms race between India and Pakistan which began last year, and they are supporting the troublesome communist regime in North Korea. Last year I appointed a "China Task Force" to evaluate these and other questions about China. Soon we will begin to see initial reports from this group of existing committees dedicated to finding answers.

Given our tense and awkward current relationship with the Chinese government, President Clinton seems determined to bring China into the World Trade Organization (WTO) on terms unfavoarble to the United States. This is wrong.

Faced with evidence that China may have stolen America's nuclear secrets. threats from Beijing in response to America's effort to deploy a missle defense, and China's continued suppression of religious freedom and human rights, we should oppose Chinese WTO membership at this time. Mississippi jobs are threatened by China's predatory trade practices. I am highly skeptical that with WTO membership China will suddenly end these practices and open its markets to the extent that the American market is open to Chinese products.

Though China should be dealt with firmly on these issues, we should not label China as America's new enemy. While their government remains communist, millions of Chinese people still yearn for democracy.

A decade ago, China too was caught up in a worldwide anticommuntist movement as protesters crowded Tiananmen Square. This movement was crushed with communist tanks, but still behind the offcial Chirese rhetoric remain millions of freedom-loving people eager to enter a post-communist century. America must not forget these people, or her own.

In a joint effort with the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and the Hancock County Tourism Development Bureau, Community Education will launch its new Hancock County Hospitality Academy training course in

The Academy training will begin with two customer service seminars to be Held Monday, July 26, 8 a.m.-neon and on Tuesday, July 27, 4-8 p.m. Both sessions will take place at the Bay St. Louis branch of the Hancock County Library System.

The Hancock Chamber, Hancock Tourism Bureau and Community Education formed the partnership in an effort to provide the best program possible to benefit the local business community.

The seminar will help business leaders and owners provide the necessary tools for employees to satisfy customer shops, thanks to a $10,000 needs. In turn, the program will help participating businesses profit from the success of repeat business.

OCEANS ALIVE stands for Oceanographic Career a en-:::hancement and Naval Science: Adventurous Learning in Variable Environments.

The program's mission is to inform and interest local students and teachers in the field of naval oceanography.

The students and teachers are from Hancock High School, Harrison Central, Pascagoula, Pearl River Central, Picayune Memorial, Poplarville and Stone County high schools in Mississippi; Slidell High School, Mandeville, East Jefferson high schools and Edna Karr Magnet School in Louisiana, and West Side High School in Arkansas.

The Naval Oceanographic Office, based at Stennis Space Center, established the program last year as part of the National Education Goals effort to make the U.S. first in the world in math and science education.

Oceans Alive provides a combination of classroom lectures and hands-on learning experiences aboard the USNS Henson to show students that math and science skills are needed to think creatively, make decisions, and solve problems. An educational advisor ensures that the curriculum will meet state and national science education standards.

The students and teachers will have two three-day trips aboard the Henson, the Navy's newest oceanographic survey ship, to introduce them to the field of oceanography and to encourage them to pursue an oceanography career. Students and teacher will work side by side with Navy oceanographer.

Activities will include:

• In the biological oceanography section, students and teachers will collect plankton samples, enrich them with nutrients, then measure and record growth. Students will then discuss relevance of their findings to carbon cycle, global warming ad hazardous alga blooms.

• In the physical oceanography unit, students and teachers will use a side-scan sonar to look for shipwrecks in the Mississippi Sound.

11th annual Radio for Red Cross blood drive set

Thirteen local radio stations will once again join forces this summer for the annual Radio for Red Cross Blood Drive as they attempt to sponsor the Mississippi Gulf Coast's "Biggest Blood Drive of the

The two-day drive is being planned to collect 1,000 units of lifesaving blood. Last year, the Radio for Red Cross drive brought in a record number of 746 units of blood from Gulf Coast donors.

The blood drive will be held Tuesday, July 13 at Singing River Mall on Hwy. 90 in Gautier from noon-7 p.m. The drive will be set up in the mall next to Kay-Bee Toys.

On Wednesday, July 14, the blood drive will take place at Edgewater Mall on Hwy. 90 in Biloxi, noon-7 p.m. The site will be next to Dillard's in the old Walgreens location.

Everyone who registers to donate will receive a special thank you from local sponsors including a commemorative t-shirt, a Radio for Red Cross pin, coupon for a free chicken sandwich from Chick-fil-A, a free ice cream coupon from Haagen-Dazs, a free can of Pepsi One, and a one-week free trial membership from Premier Aerobics and Fitness.

If a blood donor brings a buddy to donate, both donors will receive a Buddy BloodDrop bean bag doll.

At some point during this year's drive, the 5,000th donor to ever give blood at a Radio for Red Cross blood drive will give the gift of life. That donor will also receive a very special thank you package.

If the two-day drive surpasses its goal of 1,000 units, a 6,000th donor may also receive this special package.

Donors will be able to enjoy Domino's Pizza at the refreshment table, watch movies and have popcorn, meet Hook from the Mississippi Sea Wolves and visit with other costumed characters throughout the day.

Your favorite radio personalities will be on hand both days and there will be a supervised Kids Corner set up for children while their parents give blood.

Organizers hope to collect at least 400 units of blood at Singing River Mall and another 600 units at Edgewater Mall. The summer months are typically a time of year when the blood supply can fall to critically low

Blood donations have a tendency to decline in June, July and August yet the need for blood by area hospitals may actually increase due to more activity on the Coast.

Hospital usage of blood and blood products has increased by approximately 25 percent this year as compared to last year in the Gulf Coast region. Nationwide, the increase in usage over last year is at about 4 percent,

To give blood you must be at least 17 years old, weigh 110 pounds or more, be in good overall health and have not donated in the past 56 days. There is no upper age limit for giving blood, and all blood types are needed, especially O negative and O positive.

For information on donating blood or volunteering for the American Red Cross, call 1-888-432-5663 or call a local Red Cross Chapter in Biloxi/ Gulfport at 896-4511 and in Pascagoula at 762-2455.

Red Cross training volunteers

The Gulf Coast chapter of the American Red Cross is holding training classes in preparation for the hurricane season.

Hancock County Red Cross worker Bertina Burge held a training class on damage assessment in the Pearlington Community Building. Red Cross Director for Hancock County Ray Sheehy conducted the training for the West Hancock, Bayshore and Clermont Harbor Volunteer Fire Departments personnel.

The fire personnel will provide the initial input for the damage assessment in the areas that they are responsible for. The information will then be used by the Red Cross to determine the needs of the citizens in those areas.

Follow-up inspections will take place as required after the initial assessment.

The use of the volunteer fire personnel is a new idea to greatly increase coverage of damage reports and timely sub-mission of the reports. Other volunteer fire departments are being asked to join in the effort to improve service to Hancock County citizens. Training will be provided to all volunteer fire departments that wish to assist the Red will hold a training class for shelter managers and workers July 13 at the Hancock County Civil Defense office. The time has not been finalized. For information call Burge at 467-7609.

All shelter managers, past workers and any people interested in volunteering for this critical service are asked to call for information. Leave a message with name and phone number if you are unable to reach her directly.

As has been reported, an active hurricane season is anticipated and many additional volunteers are needed to help the Red Cross provide the service to the victims of any hurricane or disaster that may occur in Hancock County.

The Department of the Navy proposes to establish the Naval Special Coastal Warfare and Riverine Training Center at the Stennis Space Center, Mississippi. The proposed action would include:

· Construction of training, supply and maintenance facilities for Special Boat Unit (SBU) 22, currently operating in temporary facilities at Stennis Space Center; Construction of a school, barracks and galley for the Naval Small Craft Instructional and Technical Training School (NAVSCIATTS), that is being relocated from Naval Station Rodman, Panama; and

 Increased riverine operations associated with the relocation of NAVSCIATTS The preferred alternative is to establish the Naval Special Coastal Warfare and Riverine Training Center on an approximately 150-acre parcel adjacent to the Main Canal at the Stennis Space Center. The Navy will prepare an Environmental Assessment (EA) to evaluate the environmental effects of this proposed action. Agencies and the public are invited to provide written

Real estate licenses issued

Real estate examinations were held for the month of June in Jackson for those persons desiring to enter the field of real estate sales, rentals and other related real estate activities.

Six individuals sitting for the broker examination successfully completed the requirements and will now become licensed real estate brokers.

Forty-four individuals, including Albert C. Adam of Hancock County, sitting for the salespersons examination successfully completed the requirements and will now be awarded the salesperson license.

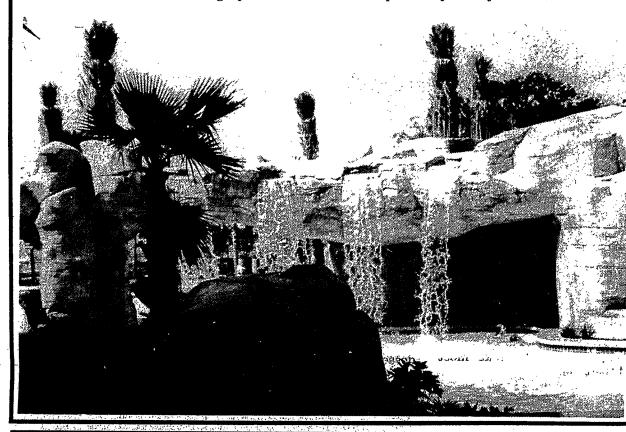

The examination consists of 100 questions prepared by the American College Testing Services (ACT) for real estate license law officials across the United States and Canada. Applicants are questioned concerning the Mississippi real estate law and rules and regulations governing their activities in that vocation.

Commisssioner Lenny Sawyer, 5th Congressional District, Gulfport, announced the following who have been issued salespersons licenses: Joan "Jo" Strickland, Clarice Gardner and Lillian Goetz, all of Hancock County.

Ask anyone how much income they'll need 10 years from now, and their answer will surely be, "More than I earn now." Everyone needs increasing income—not just while your family is growing, but also in retirement, when your expenses may be lower. The reason: inflation.

Even with the best control, a certain amount of inflation is built into our economy. To maintain your standard of living, your income should increase each year.

Working Americans are typically rewarded with wage increases that meet or exceed inflation. Those planning for retirement, however, must create an investment plan that will provide increasing income. As life spans continue to increase, it's more crucial than ever to devise a plan that not only will allow your money to grow enough to meet rising living costs during retirement, but also to last at least as long

Achieving this goal requires choosing the right mix of three

FINANCIAL FOCUS

Submitted by Craig Foster Edward Jones Co.

income flavors: variable, fixed and growing.

Some of today's most popular investments offer variable income. Savings with short maturities, such as U.S. Treasury bills, bank certificates of deposit (CDs) and money market accounts, pay income that fluctuates.

Typically, these short-term investments guarantee your principal, so they are ideal for meeting short-term needs. However, they may not be appropriate for long-term goals. For example, a $100,000 investment in three-month Tbills for the period Jan. 1, 1976 through Dec. 31, 1995 would have provided dramatically fluctuating income, from a high of $14,662 one year to a low of about $3,600 another. It's hard to budget on fluctuation like that. It's even harder to live on it.

One solution to fluctuating income is fixed income investments. These include Treasury, corporate and municipal bonds. They guarantee a return of principal if held to maturity, and a fixed interest rate which generates a stable income, usually paid semiannually, while held. The guarantee that you'll get your money back is attractive, but the fact that your income won't rise means fixed-income investments should not comprise your entire portfolio.

For example, a $100,000 investment made Jan. 1, 1976, in a 20-year Treasury bond guaranteed annual fixed income of $8,000. When returned 20 years later, the $100,000 investment had lost about half of its buying power. Not only did the income lose the race against inflation, so did the principal. The third type of income is growing income. Investments that offer the potential for growth-such as stocks and mutual funds-offer no guarantees, but historically they have been rewarding.

Many excellent companies have grown and prospered over the years. As corporate profits increase, companies typically pay higher dividends to shareholders. A hypothetical $100,000 investment in U.S. stocks as represented by the Standard & Poor's 500 Index for the same 1976 - 1995 period would have produced annual dividends growing steadily from about $4,000 in 1976 to $15,291 in 1995.

A successful investment, just like a good recipe, requires the right mix of flavors. Make sure your portfolio includes a balance of shortterm, fixed-income and growth investments, and vou'll be rewarded with your just desserts.

UPDATE

By Jan Lukens, MBA, CFP Consumer Money Management Specialist

Guarding against financial dysfunction

It's funny how issues about money are never JUST about money. They get intertwined relationships, values, beliefs and communication issues. And they can become an ugly, unproductive force if fears or unrealistic views about money begin to control

Financial planner Bert Whitehead, Cambridge Advisors, L. L. C., recently addressed the National Association \mathbf{of} Personal Financial Advisors at their annual conference on this issue which he called Financial dysfunction. Whitehead discussed seven financially dysfunctional behaviors. After 16 years of financial counseling, I could add a few dysfunctions to his list. Nonetheless, his viewpoints on various dysfunctions were insightful and unique.

What are the causes for financial dysfunction? There appear to be several. Whitehead said that many people are simply misinformed or misunderstand the financial information they receive. Some people develop unrealistic perceptions about money during their childhood or other life experiences. Others operate on purely emotional responses to financial situations thus creating less than desirable outcomes.

What are the dysfunctions? Whitehead named the following: 1) inappropriate risk reaction, 2) compulsive spending and excessive debt, 3) mortgage aversion, 4) miser mentality, 5) poverty mentality, 6) acute financial paranoia, and 7) windfall woes.

Inappropriate risk reaction may come in the form of aversion to risk or excessive risktaking. The risk-averse tend to avoid stocks and other equities with a depression-era fervor.

They fail to diversity, and in doing so, assume another risk. that their nest egg won't keep up with the cost of living. The excessive risk-taker goes to the other extreme. Always afraid he will miss out on a big opportunity, he takes inappropriate or inordinate risks. Compulsive spending and excessive debt are perhaps the most common dysfunctions. Those who fall in this category will make statements like. "I work hard and deserve to enjoy my money," and "The most important thing is to have good credit."

They fail to realize that wise money management could give them more longterm satisfaction and spending pleasure than accumulating bills and debt.

Mortgage aversion is when an individual resists tapping the equity in their home. Whitehead is a proponent of pulling the maximum amount of accumulated equity out of a house and investing that money.

Whitehead's proposal is legitimate for taxpayers in the highest tax brackets and with considerable equity in their home. It is not as applicable to middle-income families and retirees with modest assets, a lower tax bracket, few or no itemized deductions, who wish to cut expenses and maximize

In these circumstances, a mortgage-free home represents financial security and tends to be functional financial behavior.

A poverty mentality can be deeply ingrained in a low selfesteem and self-defeating pessimism. This person sees all the obstacles but fails to see opportunities or move toward their financial goals. They tend to earn below their capability and to stay "broke" most of the time.

The miser mentality is somewhat opposite from the poverty mentality. This person is afraid to spend. They live by adages like "A penny saved is a penny earned."

While this attitude is useful in accumulating wealth, this person may never enjoy the money they have worked so hard to earn. Whitehead's suggestion to clients in this category is to "invest in memories." Use some of the nest egg to take family trips or travel with the grandkids.

Acute financial paranoia occurs when an individual is preoccupied with fears such as the economy collapsing, being sued, losing everything, etc.

some people can alleviate fears by preparing themselves for contingencies. Irrational fears that consume the individual should be addressed with a professional.

Windfall woes are common for individuals who suddenly acquire a very large sum of money. Typical behavior includes inappropriate giftgiving, buying binges, alienation form family, or even substances abuse.

A person of the other financial dyfunctions will find that the other dysfunction becomes magnified when a windfall is received.

Cotter also coordinated an Airport Master Plan for Lakefront Airport that was funded by the Federal Aviation Administration and the Louisiana Department of Transportation.

He joined New Orleans International Airport in July of 1988 as Operations Supervisor, then a year later was promoted to Assistant Chief of Security, supervising the security and fire administrative staff that included 36 firefighters and 250-plus contract law enforcement officers.

He returned to duties of Operations Supervisor in January of 1991 and was part of a staff that coordinated $850 million in capital improvements at the airport.

Before arriving in New Orleans, Cotter began his aviation administrative experience working for Frasca Field Air Service in Illinois and Chaparral Aviation, a fixed based operation in Dallas, Texas.

He has a bachelor of science degree from Southern Illinois University in Carbondale with a major in aviation Cotter is married to the former Suzanne Corso of New Orleans, and they have three children. Nicholas, 13, is attending St. Stanislaus. He said he plans to enroll Melissa, 11, and seven-year-old Billy in local schools, and he and his wife are currently looking for a residence in the area.

Pursley is married to Paul Pursley Šr., a longtime practicing chiropractor in the area, who recently retired. The Pursleys live in the Jourdan Isles Subdivision.

Pursley comes to the Com-tricts. Each will receive $9,879. Heard a request by Beth Carriere, executive director of Hancock County's Tourism Development Bureau, to double funding for her agency next year from $25,000 to $50,000. Carriere said she needs to hire another staff member, since inquiries to her office have tripled.

 Authorized Lora Mederos to use $16,000 from her capital outlay budget as a match to land a grant that will reinstate the county's child care program next year.

• Appointed Bob Fricke to replace Richard Klimkiewicz on Hancock County's Water and Sewer District.

 Authorized Hancock County to begin a House Arrest Program at no cost to the county.

 Received a request from the city of Bay St. Louis to have that city, Waveland and the county enact an inter-local agreement to employ a community planner whose main duty would be to locate state and federal grants.

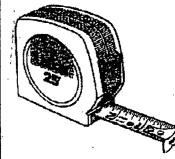

At the outset of Monday's meeting. District 3 Supervisor Lisa Cowand presented a Certificate of Appreciation to Patricia Williams of Our Lady Academy, recognizing her years of volunteer service to the community. Williams was among those selected to receive Prudential's Spirit of Community Awards in 1999.

Waveland — officials seek citizen input

All our city employees have been trained to do water, gas, and sewer repairs, and other improvements in-house. The city saves 40 to 60 percent, and more important, the work gets done." The city also met its July 2 deadline for bringing water lines from U.S. Hwy. 90 across Longfellow Road. DeRussy Motors will build a new showroom and associated shops on the southeast corner of Longfellow and state Hwy. 603, and a new apartment complex is planned on the northwest corner.

The new water lines will bring better water pressure for existing residents, and the possibility for more development along the busy 603 corridor.

Longo said this project was also done "in-house," and made possible by a new boring machine. It can dig 26 to 28 inches under an existing roadway, eliminating the need for the road to be dug up and later repaired.

"The time and money this saves will more than pay for the new equipment and allow all the work to be done by the city, Longo said.

Longo said the Hancock County Board of Supervisors is also making county bond funds available to pave 72 streets in Waveland, from Shoreline Park to Bay Line Drive.

"Supervisors Rocky Pullman and Jeep Ladner worked hard to win funding for this project, and 100 percent of the asphalt will come from the county," said

Longo said all the prep work was done by city crews, and the paving kicked off June 28 on Margie and Ryan Streets at Zimmerman Lane, and is expected to be completed in two new hire if that would exceed the average number of employees he has had in the last year. But, he told Ladner he could hire someone full-time to replace a person who is dismissed or who resigned.

Ladner then turned to what he called a more serious problem. He said one of the county's dump trucks is unsafe to operate, and he wanted to know if he could purchase a new one.

Gex told Ladner that he could not. He later furnished the Echo copies of the state law which says, "No board of supervisors...shall buy any machinery or equipment in the last six months of their term unless or until he has been renominated at the primaries of that year.'

Gex said the county might be able to lease-purchase the vehicle with a clause in the contract that states the county could later cancel the lease, and return the equipment.

Board of Supervisors President Philip Moran complained about the prohibition. He said there should be a way to declare the vehicle an emergency situation, since he was afraid the county employee who operates it might get hurt.

Things went differently for Parks and Recreation Director Roland Lee when he came up before the Board.

Lee told supervisors he needed to hire an additional person since his crews are now cutting between 30 to 45 acres

County schools announce school food information The point of service count

Each student in the Hancock County School District will be issued a household application for free and reduced-priced meals the first day of school at each facility. It is only necessary for one application per household to be returned.

To apply for free and reduced price meals for students, complete the application using the instructions for your household size on the back of each application and return it to school.

Once the application has been processed, a parent notification letter will be sent home indicating approval status and student lunch identification numbers for all students in the district who were listed on the application.

Advanced sales are available. All students, whether paid or reduced, may pay at serving time or payments may be made in advance by the week on Monday before school or at breakfast.

Meals not utilized will be credited to meals for the next week. Cash refunds will be made only when a student withdraws from school.

All requests for cash refunds must be addressed in writing to the school food supervisor located at the superintendent of education's office. School food service cashiers accept checks only for the amount of food service purchases. Parents are not allowed to combine payments for breakfast and lunch with other school expenses.

Checks should be pre-printed with the writer's name, complete mailing address, telephone number, driver's license and/or social security number.

No post-dated checks will be accepted. All returned checks will be assesses a $20 handling fee.

All students are issued a lunch identification number that is used as an identifier with the cashier. The computer assigns categories (free, reduced, and paid) to unique numbers.

All meals to be claimed for reimbursement will be based on daily counts at the point of service.

Jamison takes prize

Rounding out a full week of competition, the Kicker Karaoke finals brought the best of the Summer Fair's talented karoake participants.

The competition, which ran nightly from Saturday, June 12 through Friday, June 18, produced seven talented individuals who each beat out nine other contestants on seven respective nights.

Nightly winners won dinners for two at the Isle of Capri Casino and were eligible to return for the finals.

Taking home the top prize of $500 cash was 25-year-old Jamie Lee Jamison of Bay St. Louis with his karoake rendition of "Old Enough to Know Better." Jamison is employed by Mike Perniciaro Wrecker Service.

Thirteen-year-old Amber Cameron of Lumberton took home second place honors and $250. Tony Alverado, 45, of Pass Christian, came in third place and took home a $150

The final competition was hosted by Kicker 108's popular morning personalities, Brian Rhodes and Gwen Wilson.

Nightly competitions were hosted alternately by Gulf Coast Radio Group on-air personalities Tami Jo Campbell, Lisa Vee and Brian and Gwen.

Business Review

Advertorial

There is a new full service hardware store and rental equipment store located at 16320 Highway 603 in Kiln, Mississippi named Coastal Hardware.

Owner, Jimmy Strickland realized the need for a hardware and rental store in the area and acted on the opportunity to open Coastal Hardware. The store offers a wide selection of nuts and bolts, electrical supplies, plumbing supplies, hand and power tools, lawn and garden supplies, Valspar paints and much more. If you need a key made, Coastal Hardware can take care of that too. The store also has a complete section for all your marine needs.

Coastal Hardware offers rental equipment too. Everything from mini bobcats to spacewalks to utility trailers, Coastal Hardware can accommodate your rental needs. They also offer delivery service on all-rental equipment and set-up on the spacewalks for your Future plans for the store include carrying fishing supplies and selling gasoline as well as diesel at the pumps. The store will soon carry custom made hydraulic hoses too.

At Coastal Hardware, customer satisfaction is their number one priority. Their prices are reasonable and their advice is always free. The store is open seven days a week from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. For more information call Coastal Hardware at 586-1379.

Is it legal for someone arrested for DWI to be forced to choose between going to jail and attending Alcoholics Anonymous meetings? That was the burden of Andre Trevigne's radio talk show on which a number of atheists spoke out.

The atheists' contention was that Alcoholics Anonymous is based on belief in God, and is therefore, objectionable to anyone who does not believe in God. Understandably, God became a political football during the lively exchanges.

"That's not the best definition of an atheist," a jocular caller put in, quibbling mischievously about a previous call. "Here's the best definition of an atheist: An atheist is one who has no invisible means of support.

Besides," he continued, "Who is this invisible God whom nobody sees? Why doesn't he make an appearance here where we can all see him? I want to question him. I want to ask, 'How did you get to be God? Why are you a Jew?"

"Point well taken," I said to myself with a smile. "This man sounds like an atheist I would enjoy talking to. No bitterness or combativeness. Just his naked thoughts about who God might be and how God might meet our human needs.

Given I am a biased interloper, I silently injected my own thinking into the running discussion on Alcoholics Anonymous. Regarding a Higher Power, I asked myself, "Aren't the atheists missing an important point about overcoming

So, how many atheistic moments do you have in the course of each day? Anytime you do not act by the Spirit of God, by Jesus or by religious considerations, anytime you show public faith for material reasons, you are an unbelieving believer.

Benefit yard sale set for medical expenses

There will be a benefit yard sale for Tyler Carpenter, age 2, who received injuries by near drowning last year, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 9-11, 8 a.m. to noon at 120 Ramaneda St., Bay St. Louis.

The benefit is being conducted by Carpenter's sister, Jena Delcuze, to help defray medical expenses.

Items for the sale include toys, knick-knacks, clothing and some furniture.

TO X X CONTRACTOR DESCRIPTION OF THE PARTY O God, Family and Country

When we hear of all the troubles in the world, we should be thankful that we live in such a young and thriving country. Our country is just over two centuries old and thousands of people are still immigrating to our shores each year in search of freedom and a better life. Heaven knows, the United States is not without its problems, but most Americans will admit that we do have many benefits that other countries lack.

The backbone of any country is the family unit, and although the traditional family as we once knew it is on the decline, strong family values are just as important today as they ever were. Two-parent families, as well as one-parent families, have an obligation to make their home a strong and stable environment for their children and each other. The old saying, "home is where the heart is," indicates that a loving home with good moral and ethical values is important for a strong family and also for us to remain a strong country. Several thousand years ago, God set down various rules for us to live by, and these rules are just as appropriate today as ever before. The family that prays and depends on God will help to keep this a strong country for many years

..as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord. K.J.V. Joshua 24:15

50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Nuncy A. Perniciaro of Waveland celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary June 5, 1999 in the Hancock County Civic Center. Mrs. Perniciaro is the former Bernadine Marie Bourgeois. Joyce Perniciaro Buquoi and Joey Pulizzano were maid of honor and best man, respectively, at the marriage of the couple June 5, 1949, and were present at the anniversary celebration. A reception was hosted by Nuncy and Jaffe Perniciaro, Mike and Micki Perniciaro, Jimmy and Salina Perniciaro, Linda and Scott Davis and Martin Perniciaro, all children and spouses of the couple. The couple also have 10 grandchildren. Mr. Perniciaro is retired from a self-employed auto repair and towing service of 43 years. Mr. and Mrs. Perniciaro are members of Our Lady of the Gulf Church and lived in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland area all their lives. A surprise given to the couple by their children and grandchildren was a video shown at the reception that dated back to the couple's childhood, their courtship and wedding, as well as events in their children's and grandchildren's lives.

Gulf of Mexico Program to address 12 Gulf areas

Four-Five-Twelve? No, it's not a new long distance access code. It's an easy, numeric way to remember that on the Fourth of July, the five Gulf Coast states have 12 environmental reasons to celebrate.

And as the Fourth of July celebrates the birth of our nation, this Gulf of Mexico Program initiative may be the birth of renewed and healthier beaches, habitats and watersheds throughout coastal Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida.

"The partnership that makes up the Gulf of Mexico Program is announcing that we've identified 12 priority areas in the Gulf where we will provide resources and target projects aimed at improving water quality, protecting the creatures and the important habitat that sustain them, and ensuring that people continue to have a safe food supply and clean waters for swimming," said Jim Giattina. director of the Gulf of Mexico

Program. The 12 areas are the Lower Laguna Madre, the Corpus Christi bays and estuaries and Galveston Bay in Texas; the Barataria-Terrebonne Bays and Lake Pontchartrain in Louisiana; the Mississippi coastal water of the Magnolia State; Mobile Bay in Alabama; and in Florida, Pensacola Bay, the Suwannee River and estuary, Tampa Bay, Sarasota Bay and Charlotte Harbor.

Giattina says seven of these areas have already been recognized as estuaries of national significance under the National Estuary Program established by the Clean Water Act. Local programs are underway in those seven communities with active involvement by broad constituencies.

But because the health of the Gulf is dependent on the health of its estuaries, the Gulf of Mexico Program is committing to support the ongoing work in those estuaries and extending the lessons learned to the other five coastal areas targeted for assistance.

David Struhs, secretary of the Florida Department of Environmental Protection and a partner in the Gulf of Mexico Program, said this place-based initiative will go a long way toward promoting sustainable communities and tourism.

"In Florida we're building partnerships to protect and restore our coastal waters. The Gulf Program's initiative will boost our efforts to protect these priority watersheds along our Gulf Coast," noted Struhs.

Mike Lyons, environmental affairs manager for the Louisiana Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association and also a partner to the Gulf Program, is optimiscoastal communities.

"The Gulf is a valuable resource for the entire nation." said Lyons. "Not only because the Gulf provides 90 percent of our offshore energy production, but because of its fisheries and tourism values as well. We do business in the Gulf, but we also live and vacation on its shores, so we want to do our part to ensure the long-term environmental health, as well as economic productivity of the region."

Lyons said the Barataria-Terrebonne and Lake Pontchartrain Basins are very important and are the focus of a number of strategies to restore coastal Louisiana under the landmark Coast 2050 Plan that has been endorsed by the Governor and a host of parishes and agencies.

Ned Meister works for the Texas Farm Bureau and chairs the Gulf Program's Citizens Advisory Committee. "The Gulf Program is about implementing voluntary environmental solutions that work in concert with economic growth," said Meister. "We realize that we are one big community with one very valuable resource to protect. We're doing that through the Gulf of Mexico Program, and we are doing it in a way that people can maintain their livelihoods and continue to enjoy a high quality of life.

Deborah Dawkins is the chair of the Gulf Restoration Network steering committee, an environmental group, and says that the Gulf of Mexico Program's partnership will bring critical support to improving the environmental quality in the 12 priority area.

"The Gulf of Mexico Program is dedicated to keeping the Gulf healthy and productive," she said. "The environmental community is committed to working with all interests to achieve positive results in these areas as Giattina said one of the Gulf of Mexico Program's many valuable partners is the Department of the Navy, with their un paralleled technical skills and knowledge in ocean and coastal environments.

Recently, the Naval Oceanographic Office and the Naval Research laboratory with assistance from the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources and the Gulf of Mexico Program Office partnered with the University of Southern Mississippi to develop a state-of-the-art coastal modeling system.

When fully operational, the modeling system will provide critical information to environmental managers in Mobile Bay and the Mississippi coastal area allowing them to better manage and protect coastal waters. "We intend to develop a statetic about the focus on specific wide system what will ulti-

Civil War history, natural wonders spotlighted at Gulf Islands Seashore of the man of the first

On Sunday, July 4, Gulf Islands launches its July history series with a documentary entitled 'Struggle for Vicksburg.' Called the 'Gibraltar of the Confederacy,' Vicksburg was the site of a vast military and naval campaign that culminated in the battle and 47-day siege of Vicksburg. Come lern the personal stories behind the monuments and memorials in a film that brings the Civil War to life. 'Struggle for Vicksburg' begins at 2 p.m.

On Wednesday and Saturday mornings at 10 a.m., July 7 and 10, Junior Rangers spend some time outside learning why Trees are Terrific and wonderful creatures that live at the Edge of the Marsh.

Early in the Civil War, the state of Louisiana sanctioned a militia unit of black troops, the Louisiana Native Guards, made up of 'free men of color' who wanted to defend their

But as war moved closer, uneasy Confederate authorities denied these Native Guards the opportunity to defend

With the surrender of New Orleans, a Union army desperately in need of manpower sought the guards out to join the Federal cause. One regiment went to garrison Ship Island's defenses and guard parole violators, Union military convicts and Confederate Prisoners of

On Sunday, July 11, Gulf Islands welcomes Dr. James G. Hollandsworth Jr., professor and dean of the University of Southern Mississippi, who will present The Louisiana Native Guards at 2 p.m. in the Visitor Center auditorium.

Junior Rangers take a short walk down to the boathouse on Wednesday and Saturday, July 14 and 17, to see some of the amazing creatures that live in the water and on the bottom of a salt marsh during a program entitled Boathouse Funhouse.

What's coming up in the net this time? Sea Stars, in the meantime, will listen to a wonderful story and enjoy an art project while learning about Both programs begin at 10 a.m. at the Visitor Center.

Join a Gulf Islands Park Ranger for a walk down to the marsh and a discussion of The Salt Marsh: Past and Present in Gulf Coast History on Sunday, July 18 at 2 p.m. The program will draw together regional and natural history for the whole family and especially the kids. How did the Native Americans use the salt marsh? What did the Colonists find whey they arrived? Find out and share your own stories.

On Wednesday and Saturday, July 21 and 24, Junior Rangers explore their own creativity during the Art for Kids program. Kids will bring together the ecology and natural history they have learned over the summer in their own unique style. Sea Stars get to find out All About Crabs in an hour of art projects and other fun stuff. Programs begin at 10 a.m. in the Visitor Center.

On Saturday and Sunday, July 24 and 25, Joan and Mark Stibbitz of Andersonville National Historic Site will present a special program on Prisoners of War.

During the Civil War, cap-tured soldiers from both sides were sent to prisoner of war encampments in various Federal and Confederate states.

Thousands more captured Union POWs were imprisoned near Andersonville, Ga. In these places and others, men were caught in a nightmare of politics, neglect, misunder-standings and military expediency. Many suffered terribly. Death was a constant

A park ranger at Anderson-ville National Historic Site, Joan Stibbitz will discuss the problems faced by prisoners of war. She will also discuss the new memorial at Andersonville honoring the American soldiers held prisoner in wars fought between 1776 and the present.

Mark Stibblitz, who volunteers at Andersonville, will use his skills as a historical reenactor to illustrate survival as a captured soldier. Prisoners of War is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. on Saturday at Ship Island and 2 p.m. in the William M. Colmer Visitor Center at Davis Bayou on Sunday. Finally, on Wednesday, July 28, Junior Rangers who have completed the program finish off the summer series with a Field Trip to Ship Island. Watch for dolphins from the ship and spend a day beach combing and exploring Fort Massachusetts with park rangers. Participants meet at 9 a.m. in Gulfport. Enjoy all these activities for free this month at Davis Bayou and Ship Island. Junior Ranger and Sea Star programs for kids meet on Wednesdays and repeat on Saturday mornings. Dayis Bayou and the William M. Colmer Visitor Center are located off Hwy. 90 East in Ocean Springs. For information, call 228-875-98057.

Aquarium of the Americas welcomes sea otters

They are incredibly cute, extremely playful, and their very existence could one day depend on work being done at Audubon Institute's Aquarium of the Americas on the New Orleans riverfront.

Two young Southern sea otters named "Buck" and of the Pacific Oceans. "Emma" will make their New Orleans debut July 4.

The Aquarium of the Americas is the only place in the South where these amazing animals can be seen, and one of just a handful of places where Southern sea otters live in the entire country.

To make room for these new arrivals, the aquarium has constructed a brand-new home on the second floor for them. Featuring large acrylic windows for plenty of otter-viewing, the exhibit is especially designed with two separate pools for otter swimming and diving activity, a waterfall that surges 900 gallons of water throughout the exhibit making "waves" for the otters to enjoy, plus plenty of room for them to "haul out" or rest out of water.

Much larger than their river otter cousins. Southern sea otters weight an average of 65 pounds and grow to about four feet long. "Buck" is two years old and weights about 56 pounds.

"Emma" is just over one year old and weights 46 pounds. both are named for characters in John Steinbeck's novel, "The Long Valley."

They come to New Orleans from Monterey Calif. Southern sea otters are a threatened species; they were hunted nearly to extinction for their Otter fur is incredibly dense . . . more than one million hairs per square inch.

It is also prized for its water repelling qualities . . . perfect to keep them warm as they swim in the chilly waters

The water in the big Easy, inside a specially designed 23,000-gallon home for them, will be chilled to a otter-comfortable 50 degrees. They even like ice for cool treats.

Visitors will be able to watch as the Aquarium's sea otter keepers work with the animals, teaching them behaviors designed to keep these inquisitive and active animals occupied and enter-

Tickets to the Aquarium of the Americas are $12 for adults, $6 for children ages 2-12, and $9 for seniors ages 65 and older.

Aquarium visitors showing their ticket stub can earn three hours of free parking is available at the Hilton New Orleans Riverside's outdoor, "Whale" parking lot on Convention Center Boulevard.

For advance tickets or more information call 1-800-774-7394 or (504) 581-4629, or www.aduboninstitute.org.

The Aquarium of the Americas is a facility of the Audubon Institute, a new Orleans based not-for-profit which also operates the Audubon Zoo, Entergy IMAX Theatre, Louisiana Nature Center, Audubon / Park, Woldenberg Riverfront Park, Audubon Institute Center for Research of Endangered Species, Wilderness Park and the Freeport-McMoRan Audubon Species Survival Center.
